As Torrance notes (p2), the Nicene Creed represents the work of the Greek church fathers in reaching careful expression of crucial points in the Gospel where it had been seriously misunderstood and distorted under the influence of Greek philosophy. This philosophy viewed God as one, perfect, unchangeable and totally unlike physical beings.

The Nicene Creed grew out of what became known as the Arian controversy. Arius, a North African priest, began promoting the view that Christ was not eternal. About 311-12, he was excommunicated for this and other beliefs. Yet, his views gained popularity. In A.D. 325 Arius was condemned in a church council meeting in Antioch.
